PROJECT

Completed a project report on “A Study of Customer awareness about Banking Services”.

Customers are aware about all the facilities that bank is providing them for their benefits. It includes both Traditional as well as Online Banking for all type of customers like Rural, Urban, students, Old age People.

Today’s customer is presumed to be aware of all kinds of financial services offered by the various financial institutions. But due to lower literacy level and scarce sources of information in rural areas, the customers do not possess sufficient knowledge about the services offered by the banks. A large chunk of Indian population does not even know the significance of the bank account; for them, a bank account does not play any role other than safe-keeping of money.
